THE SENIOR CLASS
JEFFERSON HIGH SCHOOL

ROCHESTER NEW YORK

WE DEDICATE

THE Class of June 1953 dedicates this yearbook to Miss Flanagan, Miss Kelly, and Mrs. Rodney, who retired in January of this school year after having taught a total of more than one hundred and twenty years.

It's quite possible that some members of the class haven't had all these teachers. But this doesn't make any difference. The fact that a large portion of the one hundred and twenty years has been spent in Jefferson means that these teachers have devoted themselves to many generations of pupils. They have put up with a mess of trouble from us. They have smiled at the right time; they have laid it on and made it stick. They have answered fresh remarks and discourteous attitudes with dignity and sympathy, knowing that the pains that high school kids have can't be cured with pills. They have encouraged and supported us and hundreds of others in getting the most out of school. They have themselves played every part in the life of the school so at times it has been difficult to know who were teachers and who were pupils. Thus these three have helped us grow up.

Jefferson is mighty proud of these old timers. We like to think that this dedication is something that will last forever for we shall forever be grateful for all that they have done for us.

The Voice Of Jefferson High School

JEFFERSON High School has many in a variety of accents, with diver-voices harmonize; sometimes they are faculty; by rights I should say there is there unanimity of opinion. Each speak as he may desire. There is in its voices for each must speak are the voices of the pupils - some crack, and still others that are be-voices sometimes speak with maty that goes with youthful inexper-without great understanding about graduate voices sigh with puppy love.

I should not omit the voices of know as much about running the school there are the voices of the graduates a out of school are free to advise us on here and had the chance to do these voices of Jefferson High School become the Voice of Jefferson High School, some of us would be interested to know what the Voice says. There is a Voice of America being sent behind and beyond the Iron Curtain. It speaks for all of us, and we must wonder what it means to people who have no other way of understanding the great spirit of our great lumbering loosely-knit democracy.

I pause in the midst of the multiplicity of daily events to wonder what the Voice of Jefferson High School says - not the voices of the faculty or the pupils or the parents or the alumni, but the single voice of Jefferson; a voice that speaks through actions and school routines, through things done and things not done, as well as through words spoken and written. You who are members of clubs, who belong to athletic teams and who attend the games, all of you who make up the Students Association - you contribute to the voice of Jefferson. The members of the music groups, the participants in assembly programs, our school representatives to organizations out in the community - you contribute to the voices of Jefferson. You who ride the busses, who walk the streets - you contribute to the voices of Jefferson. During the war I had a letter from one of our boys who was in training camp in this country on the west coast, far from home and friends. He was doing guard duty at night, alone on the far stretches of the training camp where not a soul passed by. The night seemed longer than usual. The western winds sang their own particular kind of mournful song. It was a lonesome spot in which to put an eighteen year old fellow not too long out of high school and far away from home the first time. His letter went on to tell of his thoughts during that dreadful night; he related incidents from his school life here at Jeff, he hummed the songs that he had learned in the Jeff Choir, he recalled bits of conversations with teachers - he replayed the football games - these were the things that got him through the night - this was the voice of Jefferson.

Voices linger. The mind sorts out the to-be-forgotten and the to-be-remembered. So it is with the voice of Jefferson High School. This bit of advice from a teacher; this memory of the day when some important truth came clear; this quotable expression used by some teacher who seemed particularly understanding; this assembly experience with the choir banked on the stage, and the band below, with the choir singing the stirring Waring arrangement of the Battle Hymn of the Republic; this Senior Prom with everybody in evening dress; this Variety Show in which classmates and friends play their parts; this crowning of the May Queen; this act of unexpected and undeserved kindness; this experience of playing on a team; these the mind retains. The rest is discarded. And the memories become unified so that it is not several persons speaking but all one - the voice of Jefferson High School.

voices. They speak in different keys, sity of emphasis. Sometimes these in discord. There is the voice of the are the voices of the faculty for seldom is free to think what he wishes and to no reason for the faculty to be limited the truth as he understands it. There high-pitched and squeaky, others that ginning to sound adult. These pupil turity, more often with the immaturi- ence, sometimes quite casually and work, and then sometimes these under-parents who sometimes feel that they as we who bear the burden, and then and former students who now that they are what should have been done when they were things they talk about so glibly. When the

THE Senior Class wishes to express sincere appreciation to the Faculty for their dependable guidance, for their sympathetic understanding of our problems, and for their patience in bringing us up.

ALMA MATER

O hail to thee, our Jefferson,
We raise this song to thee;
The mem'ries dear that linger here
Are bound with loyalty.
O hail to thee, our Jefferson,
This joyful lay now hear;
Within thy walls, thy hallowed halls,
Our praises still ring clear.

O hail to thee, dear Jefferson,
Our hearts, our thoughts, are true;
This solemn vow is given now,
A pledge of love to you.
Though fate may draw us far away
And other duties call,
The friendships gained will be retained
To bind and hold us all.

STUDENT PARTICIPATION IN OUR SCHOOL GOVERNMENT

THE Student Association gives a lot of pupils a chance to work for the school. The athletic program appeals to still others. The Library Club, the Florentine Society, Majorettes, Cheerleaders, the Craft Guild, Leaders' Corps, the Jefferson Journal, the Yearbook, National Honor Society - each activity provides ways for young people to learn to live and work together.

A Proud Mark Of Achievement

GENERALLY speaking, the year '52 - '53 in sports at Jeff has been quite a successful one. We have not won city championships, but we have some wonderful boys on our teams, boys who have stuck with their teams and given their best. The spirit of every squad has been probably the best we have ever experienced. Many times that spirit of loyalty and effort is more valuable than championships. Congratulations to all wearers of the Blue and Gold and their great bunch of coaches.

SPORTS play is a most important part in the proper growth, character formation, and personality of growing girls. Team play develops sociability and good sportsmanship. The exercise body movement, and muscles used in playing tennis, badminton, and basketball, bring to the player a sense of uplift and exhilaration.

The "all-around" girl is sports-minded as well as study-minded.

Our Silver (?) Tongued Orators

SENIOR Speeches, Senior Luncheons, Senior Prom, Senior Banquet, Senior Day, Graduation - it's always the seniors that have the most to do because they have the know-how for getting things done. All these last-year events contribute to the education of a Jefferson graduate.

SENIOR LUNCHEON

WHEREVER we go, whatever we are, the Class of 1953 will never forget the happy hours spent and the many friends made here at Jefferson High School. Throughout our five years we have trained ourselves so that we may face life prepared. For their help and co-operation the faculty receives our profound appreciation. Fellow classmates, it's been fun.

To the Seniors:

For your service, your interest, and your individual contributions toward making and keeping Jefferson an outstanding school, we thank you. May you carry on by showing a deep, abiding mature loyalty to our wonderful national heritage of freedom.

Last Will and Testament.

WE, the 1953 Class of Jefferson High School, being in sound mind, body, and memory, and realizing the shortness of life do declare this our last will and testament:

To Mr. Swift, we leave a television set showing all the happenings at Al's Stand.
To Mr. Ugino, we leave hope for future co-operation.
To Mr. Lowell, we leave a years supply of car polish.
To Mr. Fotch, we leave in deep sorrow the fifth period Modern Problems class.
To Mr. and Mrs. Kirchhoff, we leave a supply of safety pins for the near future.
To Miss Hutchinson and Mr. Weber, we leave our appreciation for their sound help and guidance.
To Mr. Fauth, we leave the hard task of developing a football team as outstanding as the last one.
To Mr. Illig, we leave ten jumping beans to plant in the green house.
To Mrs. Seibold, a reservation for two weeks at Miami Beach, Florida.
To our Faculty Advisors: Succeeding generations of up-and-coming minds, eager, young minds, always seeking advice and just as rapidly forgetting it.
Ruth Volonino leaves her vocal abilities to Mary Ann Buonocorsa.
Joe DiBattisto leaves Mr. Saxe's bench---warm.
Cosmo Raimondi leaves Mrs. Kummer's room---without assistance.
Eleanor Cianca leaves her friendly smile to Emily Galo.
Norine Galo leaves the Jefferson Journal editorship to Elizabeth Moody.
Carol Ellis leaves her cheering spirit to her successor.
Ronald Iannucci leaves his movie projectors to Anthony Manigross.
Jeo Buonemani leaves---with the school treasury.
Franklin Polvino leaves Mr. Lowell's office.
Lucy Ciufu leaves everything at Jeff---except Anthony Thomas.
Arlene Costa leaves her dramatic talents to Jean Bryant.
Josephine DeFillippo leaves the World History Class after three years of study.
Albert Vezza leaves his attendance record to Pat DiRenzo.
Joan Riola leaves her giggle to Joyce Petromalo.
Tom Camelio leaves and the teachers can rest.
Rose DiPaolo leaves her trip. book to Miss Gridley.
Don McIlrath leaves his I.Q. to any one who can work hard enough to earn it.
Gladys Max leaves the bookstore.
Tom Nacca passes the football on to Dom "Whibbles" Bianchi.
Marie Fasciano leaves Jefferson with a tear in her eye.
Stella Ricotta leaves her charm to Sylvai Costa.
Tony Reale gives up his office.
Marie Roncone hands the shampoo to Celia Follaco.
Anthony Stavalone makes room on the mat for Robert Marella.
Vivian Spaziano leaves Connie Coglitore.
Tom Johnson leaves Jeff quietly.
Rose Marie Amico leaves Mrs. Schreib's right hand to Joanne Annechino.
Andy Cuccaro leaves his suave look to Joe Scarpula.
Norma Jensen leaves her swimsuit to Frances Capone.
Sam leaves his red face to Joe Tascente.
Shirley Vedder leaves her sister Elizabeth.
Vincent Roselli and Paul Guzzetta leave Mrs. Burritt.
Ann Lomondo leaves her quietness to Carol Nau.
Wally Giancursio leaves for the U. S. Army.
Barbara Bacon gives Jeff's typewriters a rest.
Roger Tirone leaves for college.
Phil Livecchi leaves Mr. Reed's chemistry class in twenty pieces.
Pauline Muratore hands the National Honor Society's money book to Miss Hutchinson.
Pat Grieco leaves for Hollywood.
Gloria Walworth leaves with the longing to travel.
Nancy Ferrante leaves her sparkling face to Joanne Tranell.

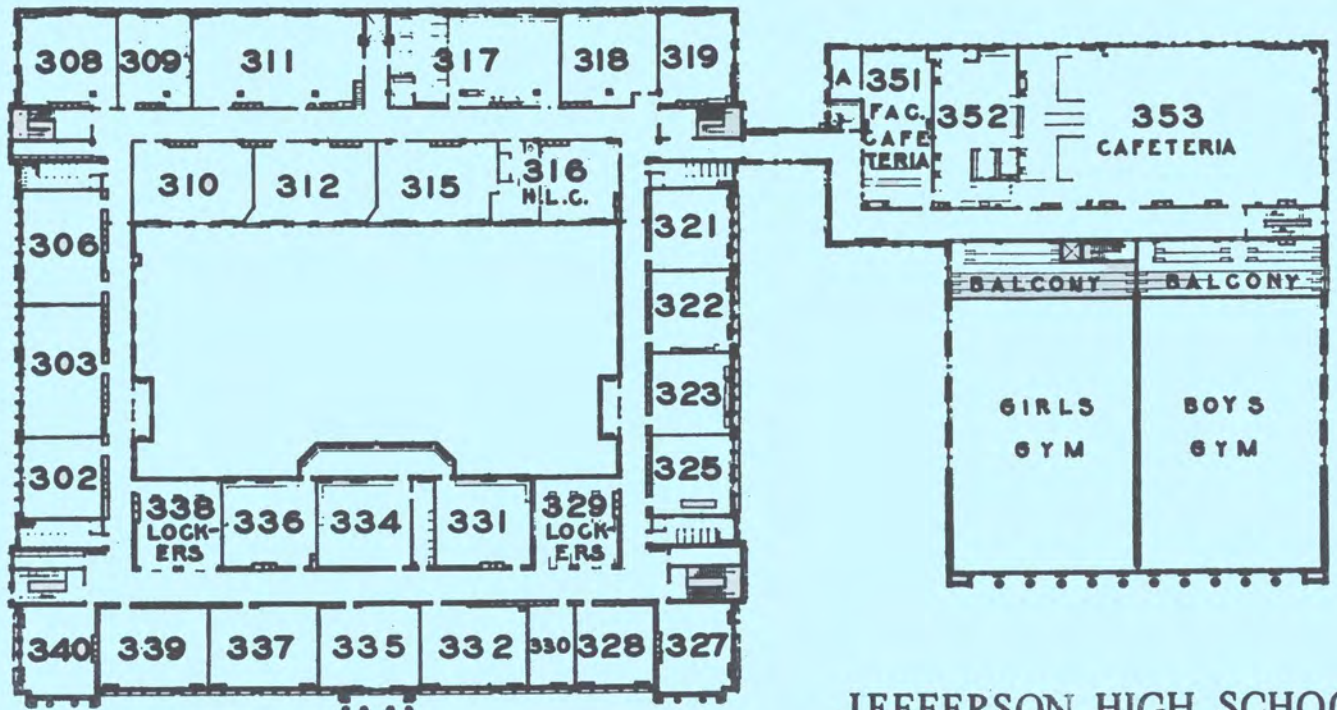

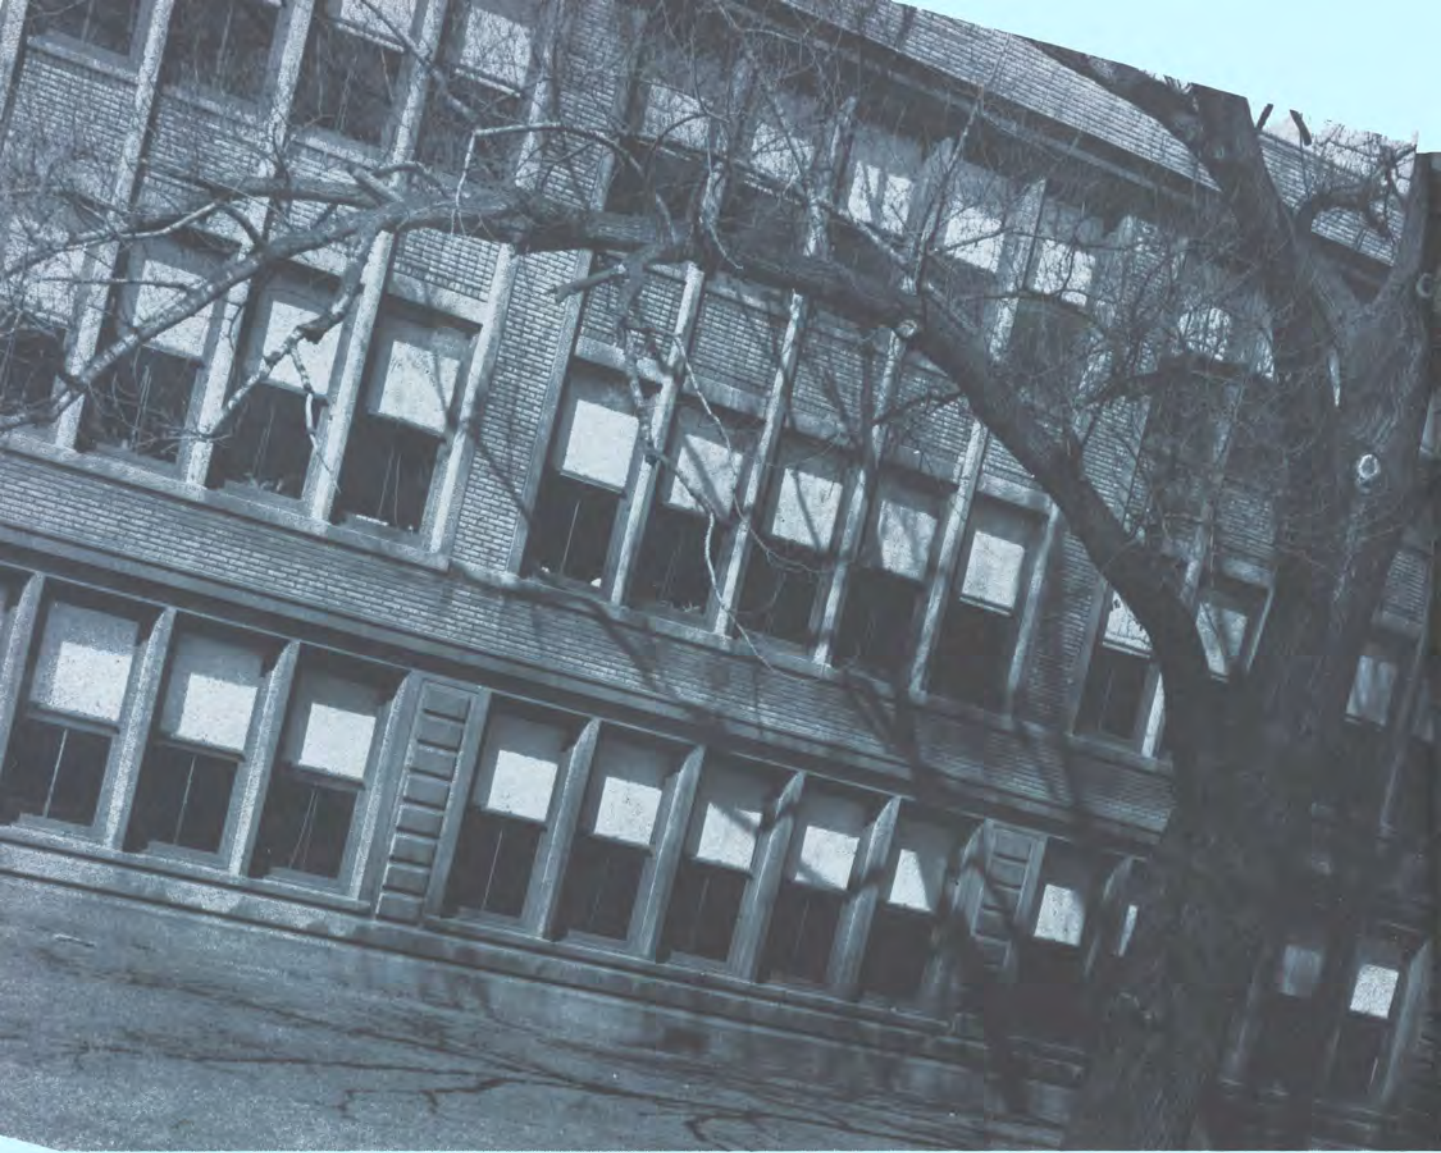

In Witness Whereof, we have hereunto subscribed our names, at Jefferson High School, Rochester, New York, in the year one-thousand nine hundred and fifty-three.
